Faith In A Drop

A drop that makes the ocean

A drop that carries the life

A drop that senses the emotion

A drop that sees the human atrocities

A drop that can't cease its compassion

A drop that joins its peers to wash our trousers

A drop that we never thought of

A drop that never fails to show up

_____

The last bed

While I lay here listening to the tick-tocks of the clock...

My mind echoes with the sounds , like the voice of the universe...

I recall the moments with my loved ones...

Wondering why I abandoned my precious moments...

Regretting it now, when it is too late to realise...

Now desperately wanting to reverse life...

May the Lord grant me the last moments...

The moment of one last delightful meal...

The moment of the last imprints of love...

The moment of last laughter...

The moment of last gloominess...

The moment of last sleep...

_____

Shedding without a complaint

As an eraser loses its freshness,

As clothes fade their shine,

As life ages with time,

As sculptures slowly erode,

And as you lose your interest,

One can't complain of your meagre efforts.

I can emerge new, leaving everything behind,

Just like a snake sheds its skin.